

countenance had become very beautiful, somewhat as it had been when she was a very small child. Doubtless, as the priest and her own kin remarked, a small ray of the glory of which her soul had taken possession, was reflected in her chaste body.

PONDER AWHILE . . .

To die happily one must live happily. Kateri's death was happy because her whole life had been happy — spiritually speaking. My death also, will be happy, if today and tomorrow and every day my soul is at peace with God . . . if it is happy ! . . .

(Now turn to page sixteen and read the Prayer for Kateri's Beatification.)

The Visions of Bernard de Hoyos

To the Sacred Heart's friends and to Kateri's also — the Vice-Postulator is happy to say that THE VISIONS OF BERNARD DE HOYOS, S.J. will be off the press not long after New Year's Day.
