

BOTH NEW

AND OLD

For the first Sunday of September, in the wake of a quarter of a century custom, the Iroquois Mixed Choir of the Mission of St. Francis Xavier drove down to the Martyrs' Shrine (also Kateri's birthplace), at Auriesville, N. Y. The choir sang at the 10:30 Mass in the Iroquois language spoken by the Lily of the Mohawks on that very spot. The vice-postulator from Canada gave the sermon.

Two ivory crucifixes, patinated by time, lay hidden in the vault of the mission church. They are old enough for Kateri to have known them. The arm sockets had been broken, one of the feet was smashed and some of the fingers were chipped off. One of the best goldsmiths of Montreal, Monsieur Gilles Beaugrand, consented to repair them. Approximately sixty hours of superior
